Featured Speaker Session Descriptions:

Friday evening, October 28 - Dr. Mark Bailey, Professor of Pacific University College of Education & Director of the Child Learning Center “Playing and Learning in the Digital Age”

Play has long been considered one of the most developmentally appropriate forms of learning for young children. In recent years there has been an increased awareness in the importance of encouraging children’s playful explorations of nature. However, we have witnessed a concurrent proliferation of digital devices not only in children’s homes but also in the vast majority of schools they attend. This presentation will examine the evolving nature of play in the age of digital access, will explore the controversy of young children’s use of computers, and will describe ways in which emergent technologies can be utilized to support playful learning.

Saturday Morning, October 29 – Aoife Rose Magee, Ph.D. – Master Trainer for the Oregon Registry and Early Childhood Specialist “Examination of Loose Parts: Inspiring Creative and Innovative Play in Young Children through Materials”

Participants will examine how to develop exciting play opportunities for children using beautiful and alluring every day materials to stimulate the senses, creativity, action, and inquiry based on the work of Lisa Daly and Miriam Beloglovsky. The purpose is to help awaken creativity and joy in early childhood settings and support play-based learning, both in children and adults.
