Sharing Art with Children

with Julie Karlonas, MA

Join us for an inspiring day of discovery & art making!

Begin by exploring what it means to Share Art with Children. We will explore elements of teacher and environment preparation, as well as meaningful and developmentally appropriate creative experiences. The afternoon will be filled with hands-on practice with printmaking. We will create eight different types of relief prints: monotype, foam plate printing, collagraph, Gytaky (fish prints), relief printing with glue, printing with organic forms, and reductive monotype.

You will leave this workshop with a portfolio of at least eight prints along with the inspiration and confidence to share the printmaking process with students.

Special Offer for WORKSHOP ASSISTANTS:

We need 8 station assistants for each one of the Art Stations. Those enrolling as station assistants, whose school has two or more participants, will receive a package of materials to take back to their classroom. Interested participants can email info@oregonmontessori.com indicating their interest in this opportunity. Only 8 spots available -First come, first served-

Cost: $95 OMA Members / $125 non-members

Includes light morning refreshments and lunch

5.5 hours of Professional Development awarded upon completion

ORO Set 2 (pending) CBK Learning Environments and Curriculum

STARS Training

Note: Participants will have the opportunity for hands-on experience with messy art supplies, including ink. Please bring an apron to protect your clothing.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER:

Julie Karlonas, MA has been providing art instruction for children and adults for more than 25 years. She is a trained Montessori teacher at the elementary level as well as holding a studio degree in printmaking. In addition to teaching Creative Arts for the Montessori School of Education at Saint Mary's College, she lectures and conducts teachertraining seminars throughout the United States and Canada.
